Recapturing the convivial spirit of Sydney's formative years, The Doss House unites fine spirits & cocktails with the historical charm of one of the city's oldest suburbs, The Rocks. Built in the 1840s, this space has been the home to a rich, eclectic collection of tenants including a bootmaker, boarding house, doctor's surgery & opium dealer, some which have been entwined within the interiors of the five, cosy bar spaces. The result is a bar steeped in character, ambiance & history.

Whisky Flights

Whisky flights are a great way of tasting and comparing multiple whiskies. You can explore new whiskies or taste all of your favourites. We've put together some whisky flights that will take you around the world and explore a variety of diverse and contrasting flavours.

LAST KING OF SCOTLAND

BRUICHLADDICH CLASSIC LADDIE – ISLAY

Bruichladdich is living proof that the traditional whisky regions of Scotland make no sense. Please don't think that labelling a whisky "Islay" has anything to do with taste because the truth is far more complicated and interesting. This Single Malt Scotch whisky is made from individually selected casks to showcase classic, floral and elegant Bruichladdich house style. Unpeated, it is the signature bottling of the distillery Made from 100% Scottish Barley and matured for its entire life by the shores of Loch Indaal in premium American Oak.

AULTMORE 12 FOGGY MOSS – SPEYSIDE

The Aultmore spirit has for a long time been a contributor to Dewars blends and is best known for its 12-year-old single malt which has a very distinctive taste. Using ex-bourbon American oak barrels this whisky shows light and fruity notes with some subtle acidity and a hint of peppery spice. Aultmore distillery is owned and run by John Dewar and Sons Ltd or better known as Bacardi. The distillery has changed hands a few times during its long history when it was founded in 1896. Aultmore in Gaelic means 'Big Burn' and the water for the spirit is taken from the Burn of Auchindorran which helps it produce around 2,100,000 litres of spirit annually.

ROYAL BRACKLA – HIGHLAND

Royal Brackla distillery was build back in 1812 and has always been about capturing esters with long fermentation and still arms angled upwards allowing for plenty of contact with copper and plenty of reflux. The whisky itself was the first Scotch to be granted a Royal Warrant back in 1835 and attached the word 'Royal' to its name. King William IV gave the Royal Warrant which led to Brackla being known as 'The King's Own Whisky'. Using only Oloroso Sherry casks and allowing the whisky to mature for a minimum of 12 years.

ALISA BAY – LOWLAND

Ailsa Bay is unusual in a number of respects. Not only does it display the PPM – Phenolic Parts per Million of the actual whisky on the bottle, but it also provides a figure for SPPM: Sweet Parts Per Million. The latter is a revolutionary method for measuring a whisky's sweetness, designed by master blender Brian Kinsman. Furthermore, Ailsa Bay is the only whisky to undergo 'micro maturation', whereby the new make spirit is first aged in small bourbon casks for six to nine months, in order to create rapid, intense maturation.

PORT ASKIAG

The Port Askaig range are brought to us by Specialty Drinks Limited who were responsible for the Elements of Islay independently bottled range brought to Australia a few years back. The single malt is produced at an undisclosed distillery however there is plenty of discussion that this is whisky from Caol Ila distillery on Islay. The whisky has been matured in ex-bourbon casks and even though there is no stated age to the whisky it is believed that this whisky has been matured for 7 years.

ARDBEG CORRYVRECKAN

This Whisky takes its name from the famous whirlpool that lies to the north of Islay, where only the bravest souls dare to venture. Swirling aromas and torrents of deep, peaty, peppery taste lurk beneath the surface of this beautifully balanced dram. Like the whirlpool itself, Corryvreckan is not for the faint-hearted!

KILCHOMAN MACHIR BAY

This distillery was only built back in 2016, on the first Islay barley farm. Kilchoman's Machir Bay is an excellent single malt Scotch whisky from the isle of Islay. The distillers use whisky which has been matured in ex-bourbon barrels and Oloroso Sherry butts, resulting in a well-balanced flavour profile, with highlights of vanilla biscuits, light fruit and wafts of warm peat smoke.

LAPHROIAG LORE

Created using techniques that have been passed down for generations, this single malt Scotch is made from some of the most precious whiskies in their Atlantic storehouse. The Master distillers select spirits from five different cask types, including ex-Bourbon barrels, 19th Century-style quarter casks and large Oloroso sherry butts. Aged anywhere from seven years to 21 years, each spirit brings its own element and lore to the blend. The result is the richest expression of an unforgettable peated whisky.

CAPE BYRON CHARDONNAY CASK

From the family that produced Brookies Gin series bringing an amazing Australian Whisky aged in Chardonnay casks from some of the best wineries Australia has to offer. Under the guidance and mentorship of Jim McEwan, Eddie Brook and the Brook Family have created an amazing expression that will be a staple in all Whisky shelves.

MANLY SPIRITS COASTAL STONE PORT CASK

Coastal Stone Whisky is an expression of the maritime elements and raw nature of the Australian coast, combined with the desire to create a whisky that exceeds expectation.

The inaugural 'Element Series' first releases are from our earliest few barrels distilled during Manly Spirits creation in 2017. All Whisky is made using the finest Australian Pale & Ale Malts, from grain to glass here in the Northern Beaches. Warm, slow fermentation at 28 degrees for 7 days. Using a mix of distillers and brewers' yeasts. This whisky is non age statement but is all between 4.5 – 5 years old.

MORRIS RUTHERGLEN MUSCAT CASK

This whisky has been matured in shaved and toasted ex-wine casks before finished in ex-muscat casks, the difference between the signature is that these are particularly old and soaked barrels. The muscat casks are at the heart of the Morris name, with the company being a leading name in Australian fortified wine since their inception in 1859.

LARK DARK LARRK

Inspired by dark MOFO and great times with close friends and family. A golden whisky hidden within an exclusive pitch-black LARK bottle, this rich and sinful single malt whisky will light a fire in your soul.

SLANE IRISH WHISKEY

Made using whiskeys drawn from a trio of casks - virgin oak casks, seasoned casks (which previously contained Tennessee whiskey and bourbon) and Oloroso Sherry casks.

YELLOW SPOT

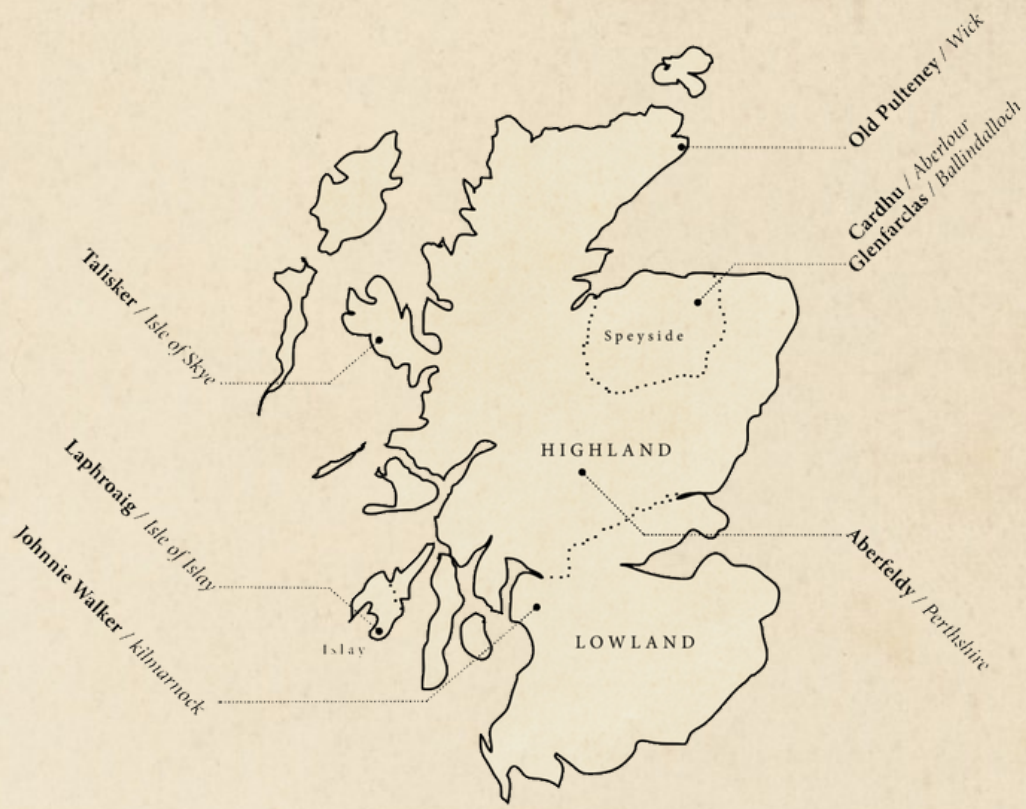

A distinctive feature of Yellow Spot rests in the use of Malaga casks, almost a Jameson 12 with the heady scent of Moscatel and sweetness of Pedro Ximenez. This combination makes for a rich Irish experience.

WRITERS TEARS CASK STRENGTH

A unique cask strength whiskey crafted through a rare vatting of aged Single Pot Still and Single Malt Whiskey. Both whiskeys are triple distilled, natural non-chill filtered and aged in Bourbon barrels. On average 6,000 individually numbered bottles of this super-premium whiskey released across selected markets worldwide, with 1,500 bottles destined for the USA and 4,500 distributed across the rest of the world, making this a somewhat rare whisky indeed.

CONNEMARA

Unique among Irish whiskeys, Connemara is the only Irish Peated Single Malt Whiskey widely available today. Inspired by the 18th century art of drying malting barley over peat fires, Connemara possesses a distinct peaty flavour and aroma, instilling a delicate smokiness and light, sweet taste. Its complex peat flavours with sweet malt taste make it a truly unique Irish whiskey.

SCOTLAND

Lowland whisky is known for being elegant, delicate & approachable. Often featuring notes of honeysuckle, cream, ginger, toast, toffee, cinnamon and fresh cut grass, Lowlands offer a gentle introduction to Scotch. This unique style is a result of being the only Scotch region to still regularly use triple distillation. Lowlands is a region deeply steeped in tradition yet always producing new and exciting spirit.

If you draw a line between Edinburgh and Glasgow, everything above that line is the Highlands. Due to the vast area, whisky in the Highlands is incredibly diverse and there truly is a Highland Scotch for every palate. Though it's difficult to pinpoint notes in such an array of flavours, some typical notes of this region include honey, heather & light smoke backed by robust, dry body.

Tucked away in Scotland's southernmost part of the Inner Hebrides, Islay is truly in a league of its own. A unique makeup of peat on the island provides Islay malts with unmistakable notes of smoke & brine on the nose giving way to multilayered and complex flavours on the palate displaying everything from mossy, peaty, & floral mixes to peppery, spicy and even soapy hints. This complexity is the reason Islay malts are often prized as the best in Scotland and have a dedicated following.

Australia

From the First Fleet arriving with 65,000 litres of rum to Australian distilleries winning awards on the global stage – it's no secret that Australians love their spirits. In it's infancy compared to Scotland or Ireland, the Australian whisky industry is certainly making up for lost time, Tasmania's Sullivans Cove was the first whisky from outside of Scotland or Japan to win Worlds Best Single Malt in 2014 and the entire Australian industry has been winning awards annually since. Featuring a vast array of finishes, flavours and complexity our selection of Australian whisky is sure to have something to offer everyone.

Ireland

Derived from the term uisce beatha, meaning “water of life”, even the word whiskey has Gaelic roots. The first record of Irish whiskey dates back to 1405, some 90 years before it was recorded in Scotland. In 1608 whiskey production transitioned from local past time to an industry when Old Bushmills became the worlds first licensed whiskey distillery. Irish whiskey is known for it’s triple distillation, compared to Scotlands double distillation, this practice results in a lighter, fragrant and more delicate dram, making it perfect for beginners and connoisseurs alike.

AMERICA

America

American whiskey has had a rocky road battling prohibition in the 20s and 30s but they've certainly made up for lost time and come back with a vengeance. There are currently over 2000 distilleries operating in the United States producing bourbon, rye, corn, wheat, malt & Tennessee whiskies. Each spirit must contain at least 51% of it's first listed grain and all must be aged in virgin American oak barrels – allowing those barrels to then be used all over the world afterwards to age spirits giving us ex-bourbon finished Scotch, Irish and world whiskies.

JAPAN

Japan

Whisky production in Japan dates back as far as 1870 but commercial production didn't begin until Masataka Taketsuru returned from Scotland in the early 1920s and Yamazaki distillery was opened with the wealth of knowledge the "Father of Japanese Whisky" brought with him. Taketsuru is largely responsible for the style of Japanese whisky being so grounded in Scotch techniques & flavours and over the years this grounding in tradition has been combined with new Japanese techniques – reduction of lipids in wort, finishing spirit in distinctly Japanese barrels like Mizunara oak. This has given us the delicately balanced, rich complex and always elegant Japanese whiskies we know today.
